

Where Is The Rent Right For You?

Also known as The Windy City, Chicago is famous for its skyscrapers, sports, and central downtown area. However, the city is actually composed of 76 neighborhoods. As of July 1st, 2014 Chicago is home to 2,722,389 people according to the Census Bureau. This makes it the third largest city in the nation. The average rent in Chicago is $1,942 as of August 2015, falling far behind San Fransisco ($3,512) and New York ($3,642). With the wide range of prices, there is also a place for a wide range of people.

Median rent prices in Chicago

